ABSTRACT

This handbook presents statistics about the public and private schools of Maryland. In 1997 there were 830,744 public school students in Maryland and 170,285 nonpublic students representing a 10.5% increase in the public school enrollment over 5 years and a 14.5% increase in nonpublic school enrollment over 5 years. There were 1,297 public schools in the state and 1,110 nonpublic schools. Of the state's 91,889 public school staff, 62,503 were in instructional positions. The majority of Maryland's public school students were White (55.9%), with the remainder being 36.1% African American, 3.7% Hispanic American, 0.3% American Indian, and 4.0% Asian American. Most of the state's 48,884 teachers were White (78.1%) with 19.7% African American. The statewide average dropout rate was 4.66%, although in Baltimore City, the dropout rate was 13.49%. Most of the state's 43,365 high school graduates (81.1%) planned to go to college. Information is also provided about achievement test results for the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the Maryland School Performance Assessment, as well as information about teacher salaries, financial resources, special programs, and vocational and adult education. Lists of state school information resources and local school systems are provided. (Contains 34 tables, 1 map, and 6 figures.) (SLD)

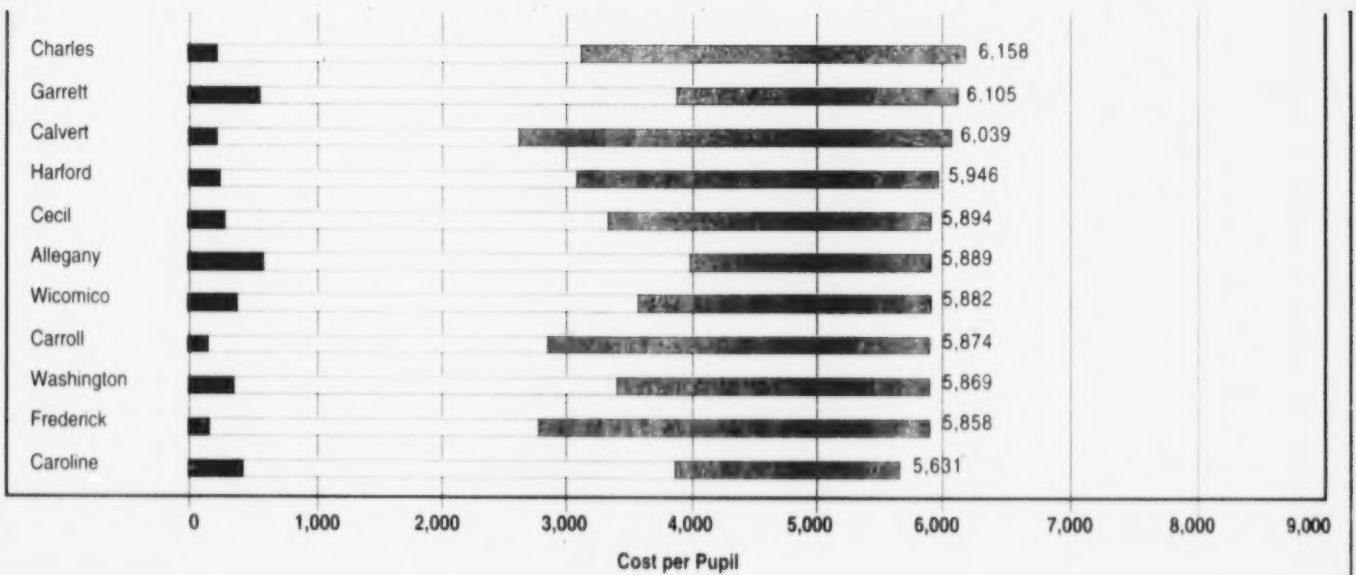
Cost Per Pupil Belonging* Maryland Public Schools: 1996-97



* Includes the following categories of expenditures: administration; instruction less adult education; student personnel/health services; student transportation; operation/maintenance of plant; special education; and fixed charges paid locally or by the State. Expenditures for equipment and payments for tuition are excluded.

NOTE: Cost per pupil reflects the average cost of providing educational and related services to the students of each local school system. Care must be exercised in using these costs for comparative purposes because the cost of programs and services among local school systems is not uniform.

Did You Know . . .

- Over 3,500 school and nutrition service employees participated in nutrition education and food service training activities. Over 500 Maryland schools became Team Nutrition schools, placing special emphasis on nutritious meals and nutrition education.

- Over 1,400,000 meals were served to children in the summertime as part of the Summer Food Service Program.

- Last year, an average of 338,942 lunches and 69,988 school breakfasts were served to Maryland students each day.

- A school bus is 140 times safer than a family car and the safest form of transportation. Each year, school bus drivers receive a minimum of six hours of training in addition to their fifteen hours of pre-service training.

- During the 1996-97 school year, school bus drivers in Maryland transported 576,976 students more than 108.8 million miles.

- More than 237,000 Maryland residents have been awarded high school diplomas through GED testing since 1941.

- In 1997, GED graduates accounted for approximately 11% of Maryland's high school graduates. One out of every 20 GED recipients pursues a college education.

- A total of 2,321 individuals with disabilities became employed as a result of the services provided by the Division of Rehabilitation Services.

- Results of the 1996 Maryland Adolescent Survey show a decline from the 1994 survey in the use of tobacco, alcohol, and other drugs among sixth and eighth graders, substantially no change in substance usage for tenth graders, and an increase in the use of cigarettes and marijuana for twelfth graders.

- The National Education Goals Report: Building a Nation of Learners 1997, reported that between 1990 and 1996:

  - ▲ 38 states experienced no change in the percentage of 18- to 24-year-olds who held a high school diploma. While the national average remained at 86%, Maryland's high school completion rate increased from 87% to 93%.
  - ▲ Although the percentage of students achieving at the proficient or advanced levels in eighth grade reading achievement did not increase nationally, Maryland percentage increased from 17% to 24%.

- During the 1997 fiscal year, 895 diplomas were awarded to incarcerated persons, an increases of more than thirty percent from the previous year.
